

Greetings my dear sweet Churchillians,

It is my most heartfelt belief that, though I may be bad, I am perfectly good at it. "It", as I believe the original intention by Rihanna was in her song S&M, describes the MCR Computing Officer position.

I know I'm the right person for the job. I already have loads of experience in running college websites; I was the

Churchill College Webmaster for the main website for four months when I was an undergraduate, I was JCR

Computing Officer for a year, as a result of which I brought about the first fully working Churchill JCR website in several years, and I've been running the Churchill Music Society website for three years.

I even run the server the MCR website is on; I've been the college's Student Server Sysadmin for over a year. This means that only I, of all the candidates for this position, will be able to make rapid changes at a system level to bring the MCR website to new levels of power.

I'm even strong on the other roles the Computing Officer needs to perform: I was head of IT for a year for a transnational company on my Gap Yah, and I have years of experience on committees (JCR, Music Society, College ICT Committee).

However, none of the above is as important as this one key fact: I love you all. Every last one of you. And that heartfelt love brings with it a true desire to serve you and make sure the MCR Committee meets your needs majestically.

With all of my heart,

Sam Ainsworth

First Year Computer Science PhD Candidate

Very Nice Person and Fan of Mermaids

Figure 1: This is how passionate I am about computers.

Figure 2: I'm like a wizened computer wizard.